

4,000 AT DANCE OF LAKE CAPTAINS

Annual Ball Most Brilliant Ever
Given by Detroit Lodge.

Lake captains and their friends danced until early this morning at the Arcadia dancing hall, the twenty-first annual ball of Detroit lodge No. 7, Shipmasters' association, bringing out a notable gathering of vesselmen from Detroit and nearby ports.

More than 4,000 dancers were on the floor and several hundred others were in the gallery. It was the most brilliant affair ever given by the organization and the officers received congratulations on the successful arrangements. The hall was especially decorated for the occasion.

Captain Charles J. Autterson, who has just retired as president of the Detroit lodge, led the grand march. Among those present were a number of lumber shippers who are attending the convention in Detroit this week.

The executive committee in charge of the arrangements consisted of Captain Alex. J. McKay, president of the lodge; Captain A. J. Mahon and Captain B. S. Baker. The floor committee was composed of James B. Watts, chairman; L. P. Anderhalt, E. J. Burke, George Trotter, Thomas Ellis, G. A. McAulay, George F. Hecor, J. A. McDonald, Thomas Hackett, John McAlpine, James Cannally, D. W. Davie, Anthony Peterson, J. E. Mahon, Clark Byers, A. J. Fox, and E. D. Gatlifield.

The door committee included Norman McGuire, chairman; William Jagenaw, C. C. Balfour, Daniel McKay, F. H. Pauls, Charles Merckel, Walker Norvell, S. O. Robinson, and Charles Atkinson. The refreshment committee consisted of W. H. Yates, chairman; W. J. McLean, John Pearson, Louis Stoddard, Jay A. Pearson and Charles L. Wilson.
